STUDENTS ASSIST AT TEACHING

The members of the Future Teachers Club of the Howard Wood school, under the sponsorship of Miss Margaret Lacey, are helping the primary teachers of the school in many ways. In addition, the students receive encouragement to become teachers of the future.

Each member of the club has been assigned to a teacher, and under her supervision performs such duties as mixing paints, holding drill cards and helping individual children with reading, arithmetic or spelling.

Helps Foreign-born

One of the future teachers, Judith Frederickson, has been helping a little boy who recently moved to California from Holland. This boy did not know a word of English when he entered school, but he can now read complete books.

Robert D. Evans, principal, feels that this program has done much for the girls themselves as well as for those they have helped. It has increased their self-confidence and has stimulated interest in doing their own work.

Louise Otterstein serves as club president. Other members of the club include Jean Hughes, Lynn Street, Onge, Sandra Rosencrantz, Mary Ann Millar, Patsy Hardage, Janice and Judith Frederickson.

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Whitum and family returned recently from Phoenix, Arizona, where they attended the area conference of the Missionary Church Association.
